For over forty years the unique photographic imagery of JILL LYNNE, a multi-generational New Yorker, has been exhibited, collected, and published internationally. Lynne was recently awarded a coveted Artists Grant from the New York Foundation For The Arts. Lynne's work delves into the surreal world of fantasy while making strong statements about women's roles, the environment, and other socio-political issues. Her imagery explores the evolution of lifestyle, nite-life, the art world, fashion, chic society, underground culture, diverse sub-cultures, flora, fauna, and the equestrian world. Lynne's environmental work includes photography and advocacy for the Hudson River Park Conservancy. In addition, for three decades she has turned her camera to the flora and fauna of South Florida, with a special emphasis on the disappearing habitat of the Everglades. Currently, LYNNE is working on two photography book projects, "X Posed: From The Chic To The Sleazy; A Decade 1975-1985" (digitally enhanced portraits of the nite-life scene), and "Natura Viva, Natura Morta" (environmental images with poetry).
